Welcome to the miracle world called Westland

Welcome to the miracle world called Westland!

Decisiveness, innovation, and creativity are key words in this region. Its vast horticultural area is one of the most important key ports of our country. Here, the motto is: Always try to think one move ahead. Hence, the world championships draughts for juniors and girls fits this region so well. How did Corporation The Hague Open end up in the middle of The City of Glass, only 15 kilometres from the centre of The Hague? Well, having organized the Hague's international summer draughts tournament The Hague Open for 15 years, we were ready for 'something else'. FMJD administrator and referee Johan Demasure asked us if we were willing to organize this tournament. When Fletcher Hotel-Restaurant Carlton in Naaldwijk guaranteed the attractive ambiance of a 3 star accommodation, our choice was quickly made.

Moreover, acquiring of the additional sponsorship was very successful. The municipality of Westland - initially represented by alderman for sports Ben van der Stee, later by his successor Jan Bogaard - management foundation Loswal De Bonnen, VSB Fund Westland, and Rabobank soon got enthusiastic about our plans. Their binding element is to promote Westland. Hence, the special informative Westland page in the program. Additional support - in many forms - was given by the FMJD, the KNDB, and the Ministry of Health, Well-being, and Sports.

The World Championship will be a unique event in a unique region. With players from Russia, Senegal, Mongolia and Brazil. The vacant title of Belarusian double world champion Andrey Tolchikov is at stake for the juniors. It will be interesting to see how 13 year old (!) local hero Martijn van IJzendoorn from Wateringen will carry on in this arena. Despite his young age, he was granted with a free invitation.

We proudly announce that it will be possible, by using electronic boards, to follow 10 games every day in real time all over the world, from Mongolia to the Antarctica.

In addition, we have organized regional school championships, of which both finals will be played during the world championship in the Fletcher Hotel-Restaurant Carlton. Draughts is not only top-class sport, but also recreational sport.

We hope that we have created sufficient conditions for all participants to perform optimally. We wish you all - regardless of the result - a lot of success and a jolly good time in this captivating region.

Fred Ivens

Chairman Foundation The Hague Open

A large pool of talent in Naaldwijk

In 2010, The Netherlands will host another important draughts tournament. Whilst the top players are looking forward to the 2011 World Championship in Emmeloord, their predecessors will compete in coastal Naaldwijk. The Fletcher Hotel-Restaurant Carlton in Naaldwijk will be a major sponsor for this event and will host the participants.

We expect to see a large pool of talent in Naaldwijk. Not only very talented young Dutch players such as Martijn van IJzendoorn will participate, but also other countries, such as Brazil, will send participants. In the past summer tournaments, we saw that very young Chinese players increased their rating rapidly. In the summer of 2010, a major collaboration between the Netherlands and Senegal started, and hopefully this will result in African players participating, too. We hope that in the coming years also the United States will send strong young players. All of this proves that draughts will be more international in the future.

As we can see now, retired people such as Fred Ivens still have a lot of energy. He was not only involved in the last The Hague Open tournament, but he is also a main force for the World Championship Youth. Alongside Fred Ivens, we owe many thanks to Jan Kok, Richard van Diggele, Guido van den Berg, Martin van der Hout and Gerard de Groot. We hope that the many sponsors will see the power of publicity resulting from major draughts tournaments, and that it will entice them to sponsor future tournaments as well.

In the winter months, major storms can batter the Dutch coast, and for those who enjoy these storms, Naaldwijk is an excellent place to be. We hope that the North Sea environment will inspire the players to stormy games inside the Fletcher Hotel-Restaurant Carlton. And don't be surprised when, within 5 to 10 years, one of the participants will be the new world champion!

I wish the organization and the players a very inspiring tournament.

Harry Otten
President FMJD

World Championship Youth in The Netherlands, wonderful!

After four years, the World Youth Championships are again in The Netherlands. Wonderful!

Some enthusiastic The Hague draughts players and the organizers of the The Hague Open, the famous summer tournament of which this year the last edition was held, took the time to organize something else. The choice for the World Youth Championships, both for boys and girls, is a good decision. That they were able to find sufficient financial resources for the organization of this tournament, is an achievement in itself.

The event will be held in the Fletcher Hotel-Restaurant Carlton in Naaldwijk. A wonderful accommodation for such a tournament, and a great accommodation for the participants to spend the night.

The two events were held in The Netherlands for the last time in 2006. Then, Hijken DTC was the organizing association. This was also the last tournament in which a fellow countryman won the title, namely Pim Meurs. In the 38 times that the World Championship for boys was held, he was the sixth Dutchman who won the title.

In almost all other years, the title went to players from Eastern-European countries. If The Netherlands would like to stay on the same level as those countries, this is the time that a Dutchman should win the title again. With the talent Roel Boomstra we have a good chance. Another talent is Martijn van IJzendoorn, who is the national youth champion in the category of the mini-cadets. He may be very young; however, this year he has shown that he plays almost as well as the world top, for example during the tournament in Salou. Anyway, the organization can be sure that media attention will be paid to this talent from Westland.

The tournament is important for the development of the players, shown by the fact that almost all the winners immediately join the world top of the seniors.

The girls competition needs a bit more attention in The Netherlands! It is the 15th tournament for girls and all those times, the title went to a girl from an Eastern European country. The Dutch girls barely played a role in the distribution of medals, with the exception of Linda Schnieders, who became second after a barrage for the title, in 1998. Due to increased attention for the girl-players and additional training opportunities, the Dutch girls start ending up in the top and sub top of international championships, as well.

I hope that the tournament, both from a sportive and an organizational perspective, will be a resounding success!!

Johan Haijink
President KNDB

Welcome and successful days!

From December 15th to 21th, we'd like to welcome the best youth draughts players of the world in Westland. Around sixty boys (17 - 19 years old) and girls (12 - 19 years old), from a record number of countries, join the World Championship draughts for the youth.

For Westland this is extra special because Martijn van IJzendoorn will join us. This young (13 years old) top talent from Wateringen is allowed to take part in this international tournament.

It will be a wonderful event, with an international look. This World Championship fits in well with the character of Westland, a municipality with the highest number of sporting clubs in the Netherlands.

Many large and small sporting activities contribute to the viability of Westland. It is important to emphasize that not only attention is given to large attractive events, such as Sport op Groen, the Wollebrandcross, and the Wateringse Cycling day, but also to people who are active on a weekly basis for events like this one. I'd like to thank the people who organized this tournament and the supporting staff.

In addition, I am very pleased that the final of a regional school draughts championship will take place during this World Championship Sport is for everyone on every day.

I hope that the World Championship draughts for youth 2010 will be a success. Moreover, I wish you, together with the municipality, the participants, the volunteers, and the spectators, successful days.

Inspired by Westland!

Westland: more than 9,000 hectares, sandwiched between the North Sea and the big cities The Hague, Delft, and Rotterdam. The approximately 100,000 inhabitants, spread over eleven village centres, have a high level of social cohesion and commitment to their society. They have, in many cases, the qualities of a pioneer: powerful, passionate, and they are always at the front. So, it is an inspiring community to live and work.

Especially the common denominator greenhouse horticulture contributes to this community. Westland is the largest greenhouse horticulture municipality in the world. It has 2402 hectares under glass, of which 993 hectares are set with vegetables (tomato/peppers) and 1394 hectares with ornamental plant cultivation (potted plants/cut flowers). More than half of the leading companies in this sector are located in the Glass City or Europe's Vegetable Garden, which is how this region has always been known all over the world. There are 9,000 companies that provide approximately 41,000 jobs.

The main strength is cooperation because in the Greenport Westland all the links in the chain are represented: production and suppliers, trade and logistics, surrounded by the many knowledge-intensive service providers. Enterprises and institutions inspire and encourage each other to excel. The common interest and the physical proximity of all these parties ensure that they have intensive contact, and thus an unprecedented innovation and mobilising force.

The municipality of Westland and Westlands economy have joined forces in the project Image Westland, with the motto Inspired by Westland! Their aim is to strengthen and build on the position of Westland as durable, innovative, and dynamic glass horticulture area.

Hopefully, you will also be inspired by Westland!
